Subject: Federal form

I have started using electronic form for the collection of non-federal urine drug screens. All boxes must be filled out to advance to the next screen. There is virtually no way to have an error on this type of paperwork, other than the handwritten signatures. The number of errors has been dramatically reduced for my employees too. I fully support the federal forms going to a similar process. It is faster for getting the MRO and employer their copies and results. It is far superior than trying to read handwriting that is illegible or too light. Please think strongly on using this positive, improved type of requisition process.
